

Supporting Our Future

Cardinal Cushing Centers

In 1962, Gregory Wood became a student at Cardinal Cushing School, then named St. Coletta by the Sea. He spent nine years at the School and says it will hold a special place in his heart forever. "For me, St. Coletta was my home," said Wood. "And today I feel the same way."

So much so, Wood has named Cardinal Cushing Centers as a beneficiary in his will. "I wanted to give back to school that raised me.

As I read what Cushing has been doing in recent years, I see a vast improvement in equipping students for a place in the world. I see now the school preparing students in a variety of ways, from job training, residential living options, social skills and involvement in the community. I am glad to see a college option as well.

What makes me happiest is being able to give back to others."
